“I found I could say things with color and shapes that I couldn’t say any other way – things I had no words for.”

—Georgia O’Keeffe

“Nobody sees a flower really; it is so small. We haven’t time, and to see takes time – like to have a friend takes time.”

—Georgia O’Keeffe

“I had to create an equivalent for what I felt about what I was looking at – not copy it.”

—Georgia O’Keeffe

“Look deep into nature and then you will understand everything better.”

—Albert Einstein

“My wish is to stay always like this, living quietly in a corner of nature.”

— Claude Monet

“All my life through, the new sights of nature made me rejoice like a child.”

— Marie Curie

“Everybody needs beauty as well as bread, places to play in and pray in, where nature may heal and give strength to body and soul.”

—John Muir

“In June as many as a dozen species may burst their buds on a single day. No man can heed all of these anniversaries; no man can ignore all of them.”

—Aldo Leopold

“If a child is to keep alive his inborn sense of wonder, he needs the companionship of at least one adult who can share it, rediscovering with him the joy, excitement and mystery of the world we live in.”

—Rachel Carson

“Do not go where the path may lead; go instead where there is no path and leave a trail.”

—Ralph Waldo Emerson

“In nature, nothing is perfect and everything is perfect. Trees can be contorted, bent in weird ways, and they’re still beautiful.”

—Alice Walker

“Keep close to nature’s heart...and break clear away, once in a while, and climb a mountain or spend a week in the woods. Wash your spirit clean.”

—John Muir

“Nature is not a place to visit. It is home.”

—Gary Snyder

“Love is what carries you, for it is always there, even in the dark, or most in the dark, but shining out at times like gold stitches in a piece of embroidery.”

—Wendell Berry

“Follow your bliss and the universe will open doors where there were only walls.”

—Joseph Campbell

“Let children walk with Nature, let them see the beautiful blendings and communions of death and life, their joyous inseparable unity, as taught in woods and meadows, plains and mountains and streams of our blessed star, and they will learn that death is stingless indeed, and as beautiful as life.”—John Muir
